Update: The Tasmanian Motor Vehicle Insurance and Repair Industry Code of Practice

Dear Members

Further to our previous Bulletin, the Tasmanian Automotive Chamber of Commerce (TACC) wishes to update members on the progress of the Code.

TACC participated in the first official meeting of stakeholders, which was held in Hobart last month, where decisions and plans were made, including a shared understanding of the work ahead.

It was an effective meeting with high participation, good energy, constructive collaboration, and meaningful conversations. Representatives for the body repair industry were also well prepared for the meeting in support of The Honourable Elise Archer MP's request for a mandatory code to regulate conduct in the Tasmanian motor vehicle repair industry. The Code will benefit the insurance and repair sector, as well as the public's interest.

TACC looks forward to progressing the Code in Tasmania. TACC remains engaged with the Tasmanian Chamber of Commerce and Industry (TCCI) and relevant stakeholders, noting the next meeting will be held in December 2022.

If you require further information, please contact Kathy Zdravevski or Bruce McIntosh.
